

A photograph of a flooded residential street. In the foreground, two emergency responders are visible from behind. They are wearing blue wide-brimmed hats with a black and white checkered band and high-visibility yellow and orange gear. They are standing behind a metal mesh barrier. The water is murky brown and reflects the sky. In the background, a two-story white house is partially submerged. A person in a blue shirt is standing on the porch of the house. The overall scene suggests a flood emergency response.
